COLLABORATIVE AGENCIES

Community Partnership for Families of San Joaquin, Child Abuse Prevention Council & Sutter Tracy Healthy Connections Resource Center

County Philosophy for Preventing Child Abuse and Neglect

We, The San Joaquin Pathway Collaborative, are working with our family's strengths to achieve self-sufficiency. Building strong and resourceful families provides children with a stable home and positive environment in which they can excel in for their future goals.

Using a Case Management approach, we will collaborate with agencies to specifically support the development of families through a case plan, referrals, classes, support groups, community events and other services to promote family success.

Overcoming Obstacles and Meeting Challenges

Challenges	Team Approach
Do Resource centers use the family plan available in Matrix, or do they continue to use family plan that they have been using?	Decision is for centers to use their own family plans, because of staff familiarity, and because the plan tracks large scale goals, daily goals, steps taken to achieve goals and whether the plan goals was achieved or not.
How do we engage other county agencies with DR programs?	Collaborative team member, who is a DR Manager and Collaborative team leader will create and hold presentation for each agency.
Creating a client coding system that provides information helping agencies quickly access client data needed for reports and Funders.	Team added 3 additional coding numbers in client coding that should help collaborative agencies evaluation teams study and identify which report client fit under.
